Sterling Sleep Systems, APPF, Inc. is a 20-year-old Southern California-based specialty mattress manufacturing company with customers in the United States, Europe and Asia. Our handcrafted mattresses are used in hotels such as the Hotel Bel Air in Beverly Hills and the Luxe Hotel on Rodeo Drive. Our unique line of high quality modular mattress systems include removable, interchangeable parts and are competitively priced.

Save money by extending the service life of your mattresses by replacing parts instead of complete beds when mattresses become soiled or damaged. Save the cost of delivery, installation, old bed removal and disposal fees while keeping beds like new.

All Sterling mattresses are constructed with interchangeable component parts that are available separately. Our mattresses come completely apart for proper cleaning. Reduce room down time. Save space--spare mattress covers and other bed parts can be easily stored by housekeeping.

Luxury mattresses can translate into improved occupancy rates and guest loyalty. Mattress comfort and cleanliness are critical when you consider that beds will be used more than anything else in a guestroom.

Solid waste in the form of old bed disposal is a large environmental problem. Based on the fact that there are at least 4.4 million hotel rooms in the U.S. and that mattresses are typically replaced every seven years, approximately 900,000 old mattresses are disposed of annually. That equates to a stack of mattresses 200 miles tall. (High-end properties replace mattresses as often as every three years.)

The Sterling Sleep Systems mattress program is environmentally beneficial. EPA WasteWise recognizes the purchase of our modular bed systems as good "solid waste prevention."
